

JOHN LACK CHOSEN TO COMMEMORATE ROOSEVELT; BITTER FIGHT OVER CHAIRMANSHIP ASSURED

NO ADJOURNMENT WHICH NO RELIEF, HOUSE ULTIMATUM

LaGuardia Announces Sufficient Votes To Override Veto and De- clares House Will Sit Ten Days After Passage.

RAINEY AGREES TO DRASTIC PLAN

Economy Bill Also Offers Bar To Vacation as House, Senate Demand Different Means.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(UP)—A group of house insurgents tonight sharply warned congressional leaders they had sufficient votes to prevent adjournment until a major unemployment relief program has been adopted. The energetic Representative Fiorella LaGuardia, republican, New York, who led the revolt against the adjournment, said he would not be deterred by the president's ultimatum to adjourn over the president's veto.

"We've been on the job every minute for the last two days," said LaGuardia. "We have a sufficient number to win the fight, and will make every parliamentary stratagem to gain our purpose."

Can Override Veto.

LaGuardia added the insurgent group also prepared to fight to keep congress in session 10 days after passage of unemployment relief legislation "so if the president vetoes the bill, we can pass it over his veto."

Representative Henry T. Rainey, democrat, Illinois, speaker pro tempore of the house, has tacitly supported such a move.

The insurgent announcement came as the house was about to vote on the unemployment relief bill. The measure was introduced by Representative Joseph T. Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, and passed by a vote of 219 to 191.

Minority Leader Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, said the bill would be passed early in the week. Administration forces, however, are preparing to fight the bill into a veto.

President Hoover is strongly opposed. In addition, senate progress, such as Senator Charles McNary, republican, Nebraska, and Senator M. La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, have gone to the other extreme. They have introduced a bill to repeal the unemployment bill.

Senate House At Odds. Regardless of what shape the measure takes, a dispute between the house and senate is likely to continue. The house is likely to pass the bill, but the senate is likely to reject it.

Acceptance by Mrs. Bertha M. Field of the post of republican national committeewoman from Georgia will be the subject of a conference here today between the delegates and leaders of the state organization.

Immediately after the return here Saturday of the Georgia delegation to the Chicago national convention, arrangements were made for the conference, to be held at the office of the state central committee.

Mrs. Field was informed for the post by the delegation while at her home in Marietta of the delegation's unanimous vote. Mrs. Field expressed appreciation of the honor, but said she could not state definitely whether she would accept the post.

Leaders of the state organization said they were confident she would accept.

Georgia Women Wets Demand Repeal Plank From Democrats

Mrs. William T. Healey, state chairwoman of the Georgia division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, announced Sunday night that she would attend the democratic national convention as representative of her organization and that only a plank calling for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment would be satisfactory to the wet forces of Georgia.

Mrs. Healey said she would leave Saturday night for Chicago, taking the same train with a number of members of the Georgia delegation to the convention, and that she would press her organization's demands upon the delegates from this state.

Vicar Sets Aside a Day To Give Frank Opinions

DUFFIELD, DEPTFELD, England, June 19.—(UP)—The Rev. W. M. Irwin, vicar of Duffield, announced today he had set aside next Friday as the day on which he will tell people exactly what he thinks of them.

The decision started when, in a sermon, the vicar deplored mankind's falling from the high standard of truth set by John the Baptist. He said a certain day should be designated as "Truth Day," to give everybody a chance to air his opinions.

A parishioner challenged Dr. Irwin to set the example and he accepted, choosing Friday.

On Friday, he is answering an undesirable invitation he will write: "I am delighted that a previous engagement will prevent me from going to your party, which probably would have been stiff."

Washington, June 19.—(AP)—The capital awaited tonight the next move, if there is any, by the visiting army of bonus seekers.

While some of the war veterans started home, the indications were that for the present the majority were immovable. Just as police indulged in pleasant round of backslapping after evacuating 50 by truck, the Southern railway telephoned it had delivered 75 more in its yards.

The veterans estimated that some 200 had gone out of town on foot, but judging from the arrivals at the Anacostia receiving camp, they must have passed twice their number coming in.

Those leaving did so quietly, rather than invoke the wrath of their more determined comrades.

The veterans' national headquarters insisted that only a handful had left to go home and stay and that most of those seen departing were going home to recruit more men to bring back to Washington.

As if by some mysterious gravestone, the new arrivals went directly to Anacostia and there announced their presence by putting up camp. Despite the more attractive and healthier quarters at Camp Anacostia, the newcomers chose to stay in the mud.

In expediting the departure of all those desiring to leave, the police arranged to have railway police look the other way when groups of veterans sought freight rides out of town.

The veterans' leaders were actively pushing forward their move to get more forces in the city. They announced the receipt of several hundred more, and letters of regret over the senate's defeat of the Patman bill for bonus payment.

Many of the letters, they said, announced the intention of the senders to join the forces in Washington.

Because of the quiet departures from the camps, the number of veterans now in the city was only a matter of conjecture, both by police and the veterans themselves. The latter claimed more than 25,000, but police placed a much lower estimate.

Pedestrian Fatally Hurt Under Wrecked Auto

Eleven Others Are Injured in Series of Accidents; Police Hold Driver Alleged To Have Disregarded Signal.

Alleged disregard for red traffic lights Sunday brought death to a pedestrian and contributed to a toll of 11 injured in a series of auto crashes in widely separated sections of Atlanta. Two of the accidents were caused when drivers sped across stop lights, police reported.

M. H. Duncan, 64, of 257 Walker street, was fatally injured while walking along Murphy avenue at Glenn street, S. W., Sunday morning when, according to police, a car driven by Dell Denmark, 22 years old, of 460 Ashby street, sped across a red traffic signal at 40 miles an hour and crashed into a sedan driven by John S. McNeil, of 280 Deatur street. The latter car was hurled onto the sidewalk, pinning the pedestrian beneath it.

In the car with Denmark were Morris Russell and Miss Lillie Bell Russell, 22, of 444 Ashby street, and Miss Clara Neil Shaw, 18, of 456 Ashby street. All were carried to Grady hospital and doctors feared that Miss Shaw may have received internal injuries.

Denmark was held at Grady without bond pending investigation of the crash. Witnesses said the car driven by him was traveling at a high rate of speed and disregarded the red stop light. No charge was made against McNeil.

Mrs. J. D. Yates, of East Lake, was injured Sunday afternoon at Flat Shoals and Glenwood avenues when a car driven by G. W. Cole, of 752 Dahlgren street, crashed into a sedan driven by Mr. Yates. Police said

Cole drove across a red stop light and knocked down Yates, who was walking. Cole was charged with driving while drunk against him.

J. T. Clark, of 790 Lullwater road, was treated at Wesley Memorial hospital early Sunday morning for cuts and bruises received when the taxi cab in which he was riding was struck at Lullwater road and Ponce de Leon avenue by a car driven by R. L. Foster, of 360 Ponce de Leon avenue, who was locked up for driving while intoxicated. No charges were made against B. R. Horn, driver of the taxi cab.

A father and mother and two children were treated at Grady hospital for injuries received Sunday morning when a car driven by R. J. Rooker, of Sargent, Ga., collided with one driven by J. E. Colbert, 1034 Washington street, at Washington and Belmont streets. Mr. and Mrs. Rooker were treated at Grady hospital for cuts and bruises, while their three-year-old daughter, who was riding in the car, was treated for a possible skull fracture. Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Vickery, of 522 East Cambridge avenue, College Park, and their two children, were uninjured, but their one-year-old son, Charles, was cut and bruised.

Police was investigating the crash of a Loudermilk, of 2855 Peachtree road, while trying to dodge a car driving along the wrong side of Peters street early Sunday morning, crashed into a water plug. Mrs. Loudermilk, riding in the car with him, was treated at Grady hospital for slight injuries.

King Albert, of Belgium, today sent a message to the conference, which was in its fourth day, declaring for international solidarity.

Only united action, the message said, could bring about a world which was free from suffering. It is time that this solidarity shows itself other than by speeches.

Meanwhile British and German experts met for the first time to examine technical questions growing out of post-war payments, while most of the delegates were in session.

ENGLAND TO DECIDE REPARATIONS FATE IN PARLEY TODAY

England, Italy and Germany Willing To Cancel, France Favors Postponement Only.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 19.—(AP)—The big four of Europe—Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany—will meet here tomorrow for a private and intensive effort to chart a definite channel for conversations they hope will permanently settle war debts and reparations.

Their meeting will come on the eve of plenary debate, which was dropped Friday after the nations represented here had agreed to forego an estimated $48,000,000 in war payments for the duration of the conference.

Aside from this decision, no authoritative evidence has turned up to indicate the course of the proceedings. It was indicated the fundamental differences between the various groups will have to be approached gradually.

Great Britain has voiced her willingness to cancel all war payments; Germany has insisted she can pay no more now, at any rate, and pressed for an end to reparations. France admitted Germany could not pay now, but insisted that treaties must be observed. Italy had previously come out for cancellation.

Clock Works Machine Found Under School

ST. BEES, CUMBERLAND, England, June 19.—(UP)—Police today investigated circumstances surrounding the discovery of a clock-work machine beneath the dais at St. Bees school yesterday when Lord Lloyd, the bishop of Carlisle, and 350 men, women and children were attending a ceremony there.

The machine was timed for 3:30 p. m., at which time Lord Lloyd was distributing annual prizes to the students. Headmaster E. A. Bell said that about that time he heard a whirring sound and a faint "bang."

Police experts took charge of the case, later communicating with Scotland Yard. It was understood the discovery was of such importance that the home office expert would examine the machine.

ROOSEVELT STAFF REACHES CHICAGO TO BEGIN WORK

Ennis, Farley and Shouse Predict Prohibition Question Will Be Met Squarely by Convention With No 'Pussyfooting.'

ALBANY, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie, who placed Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt in nomination for his first public office, state senator, 22 years ago, was chosen tonight by the New York governor to place him in nomination for the presidency at the Chicago democratic convention.

A formal statement by the executive said: "I am very happy that my old friend and neighbor, John E. Mack, has been good enough to say that he will make the nominating speech for my behalf at the democratic national convention. Aside from my close association with him, covering a period of 25 years, it seems to me a very fitting that the same man who, in 1910, placed me in nomination for the first office for which I was ever a candidate, should once more act as my sponsor."

Those position in the New York delegation to the convention Mack would take to provide for his nominating speech was not immediately decided, it was explained. Reports said that Mack would be named a district delegate to fill the position now held by Henry Morgenthau Jr., another Dutchess county member of the governor's cabinet.

The announcement of the selection of Mack set at rest rumors involving a half dozen names of New Yorkers as the nominator. Among those names was that of United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York. A recent meeting between John F. Curry, leader of the powerful Tammany Hall delegation, and Mr. Roosevelt, was followed by a report that Curry had prevailed upon the governor not to choose Wagner as the nominator. This was said to have been founded on an idea that Wagner had not been selected to fill the position in the present republican legislature's investigation of city's governmental machinery.

Mack came into his most recent public notice last week when Governor Roosevelt selected him as one of two eminent citizens to head him in his study of Samuel Seabury's charges against Mayor James P. Walker, of New York city.

A year after Roosevelt had taken office for his first term, he named Mack to fill a vacancy on the supreme bench in his district. Mack, seeking election the following fall in a strong republican area, was defeated.

Mack, as a member of the Poughkeepsie delegation, was expected to be a strong republican area, was defeated.

Neighborhood 'Terror Reign' Ends With Capture of Young Nudists

Ten policemen led by a captain and a lieutenant ended a 10-day siege of a swamp at the end of Wiley street Sunday morning when they arrested two young men who had frightened residents of the vicinity for several days by their extremely informal attire. In the swamp the young men had returned to nature's simplicity and for days had frequented the swamp without so much as a fig leaf for clothing.

Several days ago distressed residents of Wiley street telephoned police that two white men and three negroes were gallivanting in and out of the swamp in the manner of the publicized Doukhobors, a nudist cult which preaches and practices nakedness. Back to the swamp the policemen rushed several times a day, only to return empty handed after hours of beating the undergrowth and brush in search of the nudists.

Day after day the telephoned protests were repeated. Captain Gordon and his men seemed facing an impossible task. They did everything except comb the swamp with a fine-toothed rake, but still to no avail. They knew that "30,000,000 residents" of the vicinity would be wrong and so the search went on. Like phantoms the naked men would disappear after parading before the eyes of startled citizens.

Sunday morning an excited resident telephoned that the nude men were walking around the edge of the swamp. The news was flashed by police radio to Patrolmen Patrick and Shumate, who rushed to the swamp and found them in very informal attire, stoutly claiming they were washing their clothes, though a sewer branch was the only laundry facility available.

At the station house they gave their names as Clyde Williams, 22, of Cummings, Ga., and Dean Smith, 24, who said the wide world was his residence. Claiming they had been rooming on Forsyth street, the pair denied any intention of a back-to-nature movement or that they had ever heard of the Doukhobors. They were held on suspicion. No trace of the negroes was found.

Normal Basis of Living Urged By Hibben To Insure Prosperity

PRINCETON, N. J., June 19.—(AP)—Prosperity of the last decade was structurally unsound, "with not only an inflation of material values, but also an inflation of ambitions, desires and purposes," said Dr. John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University, in his last baccalaureate address today. He urged members of the graduating class to try to formulate ideals "which must guide us back to a normal basis of existence which will insure a permanent and true prosperity."

Dr. Hibben, who is to retire as president at the close of commencement exercises, said the period of

HARRY HILL DIES IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Youth Recently Tried for Mother's Murder, Two Companions Killed.

OTTAWA, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—Harry Hill, 27, young society man, whose trial here a few years ago for the murder of his mother provided one of the most sensational and mysterious cases in Illinois' annals, was killed today when his airplane crashed at a local airport. Two companions, Bert Lorenz, of Streator, and John Marshall, 20, of Berkeley, Cal., also were killed.

Hill was piloting the plane, with the two youths as passengers.

Marshall, the son of Mrs. H. H. Clark, of Berkeley, Cal., had planned to leave tomorrow to enter summer school at the University of California. Lorenz was the son of a Streator decorator.

Hill, social pet, was tried in 1927 for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Hill.

The jury disagreed and the case is still on the docket here for retrial. He had pleaded not guilty.

He was arrested in Seattle September 3, 1927, after a nation-wide search following discovery of the woman's body in a cellar grave in the basement of her home at Streator.

Hill's absence, trouble over money matters and his mother's known opposition to his friendship with a young Streator woman, immediately turned suspicion in his direction.

Harry said he fled in fear of being suspected on reading of the slaying.

The state's theory of the killing was that Harry, angered by his mother's threat to disown him if he continued to sign her name to checks and to see the young woman, shot her, dragging her body into the cellar. He took up the bricks of the floor and put in his mother's body, it was maintained.

When Mrs. Hill's will was probated, it was found she had left Harry her property amounting to about $50,000.

Due to the shortage of county funds the case has lain dormant for several years. In the meantime Hill has been at liberty.

He was the son of Dr. H. S. Hill, Streator eye, ear and nose specialist, who announced after Harry's capture he would spare no expense in his defense. Dr. Hill and the slain woman were divorced about a month before the tragedy occurred.

HEAT, WIND, RAIN, HAIL
DO DAMAGE IN WEST

KANSAS CITY, June 19.—(AP)—Death and ruined crops lay in the wake of severe wind, hail and rain storms that raged over several states today. Property damage was extensive.

Near Trenton, Neb., Frank Wynn, 35, drowned while attempting to swim for help for occupants of his marooned motor car. Water ran three feet deep in the streets of Trenton.

Harold Tack, 40, was dashed to death when a high wind knocked him off a ladder in his cafe at Arkansas City, Kan.

Milo F. Ball, 65, died of heat prostration at Guthrie, Okla., last night. The storm there followed a maximum afternoon temperature of 98°. Six inches of rain fell at Pratt, Kan.

High winds wrecked an airport at Wichita, Kan., and at Anthony damage was estimated by authorities at $100,000.

Hail and rain beat down crops and streams neared flood stage.

WILLIAM N. SHERIDAN, EX-POLICEMAN, DEAD

William Newton Sheridan Sr., for more than 40 years a member of the police department of Atlanta, died Sunday at his residence after a short illness. He would have been 70 years old on his next birthday. He was retired from the police force in 1922 on a pension.

Born in Atlanta, Mr. Sheridan resided for some time in Opelika, Ala., but returned to Atlanta after a short time. Prior to becoming a member of the department in March, 1931, he was a locomotive engineer.

His wife, Mrs. Sheridan, is seriously ill at the residence, 399 Pavilion street, S. E. Her condition is considered critical. Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan would have celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary October 25 of this year had he lived.

Widely known as an efficient policeman, Mr. Sheridan was promoted from patrolman to sergeant in 1906. He was assigned to many of the most dangerous patrols in the city, and was highly regarded by his fellow officers for his bravery. He was a past president of the Police Relief Association and was a member of the Battle Hill Lodge No. 523, F. and A. M. He was also a member of the Pioneer School Boys of Atlanta.

Surviving are his wife, who is 77 years old; four sons, John E., Ben T., Charles and W. N. Sheridan Jr., all of Atlanta; two daughters, Mrs. Guy McVie, of Atlanta, and Mrs. J. D. Langhorne, Birmingham, Ala.; and one sister, Mrs. Mamie Giles, of Charleston, S. C.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Brandon, Bond and Condon.

THREE MORE JAILED ON DRUG CHARGES

Three additional arrests Sunday brought the total number of persons arrested over the week-end on narcotic charges to six as the result of work by government undercover agents over a period of several months. The last includes Dr. B. G. Swanson, of 886 Briarcliff road, and Dr. W. J. Auten, county and government physician, who were apprehended Saturday.

All of the six will be given preliminary hearings before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith this morning or will be given bond hearings. Dr. Auten is at liberty under a $2,000 bond pending a preliminary hearing Wednesday morning. The other five were held at police station all of Sunday and Sunday night without bond under technical charges of suspicion.

The three arrested by federal narcotic agents and City Detective W. D. McGee Saturday were Dr. Auten, Dr. Swanson and John Gann, of a Peters street address. The three arrested Sunday by the same officers were James Wilson, 37, of a Cornell road address; O. B. Stevens, 47, of a Walton street address, and H. D. Venable, 218 South Pryor street.

All were arrested on information supplied by two undercover agents who, in addition to outside work, confined themselves in the county jail, where they allege they purchased with marked bills narcotics from Dr. Auten. The physician declared shortly after his arrest that the matter was a "frame-up."

WEIGLE TO CONTINUE REVIVAL AT WESLEY

Revival services being conducted at Wesley Memorial church by Dr. Charles F. Weigle will continue all of this week with services nightly. His subject tonight at 7:45 will be "The Only Way to Be Saved."

Large crowds attended both the morning and evening services Sunday and many additions were made to the church congregation at the night service when Dr. Weigle spoke on the subject, "Choice of a Destiny."

Elmer E. Husey, Methodist leader and editor of the denomination's official organ, stated Sunday night in speaking of the revival: "At the close of the church packed with men and women devoutly kneeling in prayer both for themselves and others."

The Rev. Felton Williams, pastor, and his corps of workers have been diligently helping the needy, comforting the despairing. Fruits of their zeal were shown at the church tonight. It is his hope that hundreds may gather at each service to reap the great benefit to be derived from the message of Evangelist Weigle.

'GAMBLING CRAZE' IN BRITAIN LAID TO WIVES, GIRLS

LONDON, June 19.—(UP)—British wives and daughters are getting most of the blame for the "gambling craze" which is affecting the country.

Never before have so many women tried their luck in events such as the recent Derby sweepstakes. Their exuberant, some critics allege, inspired the opening of dozens of "pool" betting clubs or "tote shops" which the betting and licensing laws do not prohibit.

On Derby day, these clubs were besieged from noon until after the race. Women and girls were in the majority, and most of the women appeared to be housewives.

The "tote-shops" are increasing in number daily and pools are formed on all the principal racing and greyhound meetings. Winnings are paid out immediately after each event.

Joining a club costs about 25 cents. No questions are asked. Membership carries with it membership in all other clubs under the same management. One London club had a membership of more than 500 two weeks after it opened. Its weekly turnover is $10,000.

Social welfare and religious organizations are uniting in a crusade against the clubs.

CAPONE BROTHER HELD IN BOMBING

Residence of "Clean-Up" Executive of Cicero Is Target for Explosives.

CHICAGO, June 19.—(P)—A heavy bomb was hurled at the home of Joseph G. Capone, recently installed mayor of Cicero.

The explosive, projected from a speeding automobile, missed its mark, but tore a gaping hole in the sidewalk in front of the residence and shook the entire suburban village.

Police Chief Sullivan immediately dispatched his riot squads and they rounded up 11 suspects—among them Albert Capone, who identified himself as the brother of the scar-faced gang leader now incarcerated in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

Strong guards of officers were also stationed around the Capone home and the dwelling of State Senator Richey G. Graham, democratic leader of Cicero and son-in-law of Mayor Anderson J. Cermak, of Chicago.

Mayor Cermak was in South Haven, Mich., for the week-end, but his sister-in-law, Miss Rose Novak, and a girl friend were in the house when it was rocked by the explosion.

Sullivan laid the attack to Mayor Cermak's firm policy of suppressing gambling and eradicating organized crime in the village.

Chief Sullivan declined to divulge the names or records of the other men hustled into headquarters.

Capone was seized in the lobby of the Hawthorne hotel, headquarters of the gang during the previous city administration. He gave his age as 26.

Women's Leader Scores Republican Platform

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(P)—The republican platform was censured tonight by Mrs. John Brisden Walker, of New York, national woman's party official, as one which "completely ignores women's demand for equality of opportunity."

Through a statement from the woman's party headquarters, Mrs. Walker said that "for the first time since 1912 a national convention of a major political party does absolutely nothing to advance the position of women."

"The republican party in its platform expresses concern for the rights of Porto Ricans, Hawaiians, Alaskans, the negro race, the Indians, the veterans and so on," she added, "but evidences no concern whatever over the position of women, despite the fact that women's status is inferior to that of any of the other groups."

Methodist Meet Ends.

CLEARWATER, Fla., June 19.—(P)—The Florida Wesleyan assembly, composed of older members of the Methodist church's Epworth League, closed its first three-day convention here today with election of R. R. Q. cutt, of Clearwater, as president.

and his occupation as soft drink parlor operator.

At the bureau of identification where young Capone was fingerprinted it was found he had served a few days for vagrancy at Miami, Fla., and had once been held for five hours in New Orleans. He had never been arrested in the vicinity of Chicago.

With Alphonse in Atlanta and Ralph at McNeil Island, Albert, Matthew are the only Capone brothers remaining in circulation.

So startled was the clerk at the hotel when Sullivan created Capone that he motioned the officer aside and whispered:

"Why, that's Mister Capone!"

POWERS PAVE WAY FOR ARMS ACCORD

Italy, Germany and Japan To Be Invited To Private Discussions.

GENEVA, June 19.—(P)—Representatives of the United States, Britain and France tonight sought a way to bring the world disarmament conference to a successful close, with a feeling that the ground at last had been laid for a genuine grappling with the problem.

Although no decision was reached, arrangements were made to continue the private discussions begun here this week-end, extending them to representatives of other governments, especially the Italian, German and Japanese, in the search for a basis of agreement.

Participants in tonight's conversations, which lasted more than two hours, reported progress. The Americans particularly got the impression that the Europeans "could really determine to face realities and do business."

Americans Present.

Senator Claude A. Swanson, chief American spokesman, was accompanied at the informal talks by Hugh R. Wilson and Norman H. Davis, other members of the American delegation to the arms parley, which will resume its deliberations next week.

Hugh Gibson, another member of the delegation, remained at a hotel, where he was described as very busy. Later it was learned he had telephoned to President Hoover.

Senator Swanson requested in today's talk that the American plan for limiting effective force be placed in the agenda of the informal conversations, which will be resumed tomorrow.

The American plan provides for determining the manpower defense needs of a country by adding the relative defense strength unchanged except for nations disarmed by peace treaties.

Holiday of Arms.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, assisted by Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, explained the British plan for qualitative disarmament by a long holiday for certain offensive arms without permitting replacement.

Joseph Paul-Boncour presented the French plan for a global cut in defense budgets.

There was some disposition in informed quarters to believe the British and French had an agreement combining their two plans, but the Americans said they got the impression there was no connection between the British and French proposals presented tonight.

Sentiment grew in the American and other quarters, meanwhile, that the arms conference would have to achieve some agreement for limitation and reduction within the next few weeks or admit failure.

Anniversary of Moratorium Finds Issue Still in Tangle

European Powers Apparently Reconciled to Settle Problem Before Turning to U. S. Again.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(P)—The first anniversary tomorrow of President Hoover's proposal of an international moratorium on intergovernmental debts finds the war debts and reparations problem still in a tangle of uncertainty.

At Lausanne, Switzerland, however, a conciliatory group of statesmen is working to settle the reparations problem alone before coming to the United States for further relief.

It took nearly a year after the moratorium became effective for the great European powers to call a meeting to decide what is to be done when Germany ceases to pay reparations. They wanted the United States to sit with them and hoped to get this country to agree to a cancellation or modification of the debts Europe owes here, before they sat in judgment upon Germany.

But finally, on June 16, just 14 days before the expiration of the Hoover one-year moratorium, they met at Lausanne and listened to the announcement of Chancellor Von Papen that Germany cannot pay another mark.

Temporary Pact Formed.

A temporary pact was formed at the end of the Lausanne conference was agreed upon by the European powers. Meanwhile, they are striving to develop some agreement which will enable American public opinion to a revision of the debts Europe owes here.

When President Hoover announced the one-year moratorium plan last June it was hailed as a move which would rescue the world from economic distress. Julius Curtius, Germany's minister of foreign affairs, said Hoover's declaration was "heroic." The radical press in Germany even relented in its past description of Uncle Sam as a "shylock."

Great Britain and Italy eagerly approved the plan. France alone of the great powers reserved opinion temporarily. It struck the French as a possible menace to the Young plan and, indirectly, to the Versailles treaty.

On July 6, the state department announced French and American negotiators had reached an agreement. President Hoover made a statement that all the important creditor governments had accepted the one-year moratorium in principle and were engaged in solving the technical difficulties arising from many complicated international agreements, which involve the aggregate payment between governments of over $300,000,000 per annum.

Difficulties Ironed Out.

These difficulties were ironed out. The moratorium was declared in effect as of July 1, 1931. The American congress approved. Europe had a breathing spell to adjust its finances and the world awaited some step to adjust the reparations payments which Germany claimed were forcing her into bankruptcy.

Congress went on record against any extension of the one-year moratorium and against cancellation or further reduction of war debts owed to this country.

Still America's European debtors failed to reach any agreement about reparations which might have enabled them to present some concrete compromise proposal to the United States. This country waived the payment for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1931, to June 30, 1932, of $252,568,803, and spread it over ten years. In the fiscal year beginning June 30 of this year European powers should pay the United States $270,000,000. They expected to get most of this money from Germany.

No considerable payments on these debts are due, however, until December 15, of this year. Therefore the European powers have considerable time for negotiations before any of their payments due to the United States will be in default.

Huge Cake Features Walker's 51st Birthday

NEW YORK, June 19.—(P)—Mayor James J. Walker was 51 today, and he cut a cake.

The masterpiece of some pastry chef's Saturday afternoon came in the shape of a huge heart. Inscribed in gold were the words: "To the goodness of the mayor's heart, and a bouquet came with it."

The mayor promptly kissed 8-year-old Beatrice Daniel, mistress of ceremonies, during the presentation of the cake at an orphan's home, and, confronted with a piano, played his tender "Will You Love Me in December as You Did in May?" but he declined to sing.

DAVILA DECLARES CHILE IS UNITED

Junta Head Denies Air Force Revolt; Claims Entire Army Loyal.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 19.—(P)—Carlos Davila, head of the socialist junta of Chile, emphatically declared today that all armed forces and a "united country" stood behind his government, despite reports of another counter-revolt on behalf of Colonel Marmaduke Grove, former head of the country's air service.

Simultaneously came an announcement from the junta that a destroyer was carrying Grove and his principal aide, Eugenio Matte, as prisoners was proceeding to Juan Fernandez island. This flatly contradicted reports that part of the air force had rebelled and was detaining the destroyer.

The junta also denied reports that rebellious airmen had captured the airports at Iquique, Quintero and Valparaiso, and insisted that the country was quiet.

The report of a counter-revolt came last night, two days after Davila, ousted by Grove, returned to power with the backing of the army.

"We have back of us," President Davila told the Associated Press today, "the united country with every one co-operating to give the government real help in solving the economic problems of the day and putting Chile in excellent condition again."

"We have the support of all armed forces in all parts of the country and they are most loyal."

"The world should have confidence in us and we will merit that confidence. Peoples of all foreign nations can depend on us."

Frank Hawks Credited With Inspiring Amelia

S. S. ILE DE FRANCE, June 19.—(P)—Frank Hawks, recovering from a recent crank-up, today radioed Miss Amelia Earhart, transatlantic solo flyer, that he would be among the welcome when she arrived in New York tomorrow, and added his congratulations for her feat.

"Frank took me on my first airplane ride 12 years ago in California," Miss Earhart said, "so it was he who really started me flying."

Late last night groups marched in the streets of Santiago cheering Colonel Grove, the air corps, and the navy, which was reported by counter-revolutionists as lukewarm toward Davila. Rain minimized the demonstration.

Several candidates for governor are expected to be present and all candidates for other offices have been invited.

Preparations are being made to feed at least 3,000 people on that day. Rev. B. F. Fraser is pastor of the church and Asmon Lewis is in charge of arrangements.

CANDIDATES TO APPEAR AT SOUTH SIDE FETE

Candidates for the various state and county offices will have an opportunity to meet the people of the south side on July 4. Grant Park Methodist church has arranged for a gigantic barbecue and Fourth of July celebration in Grant park from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. on that day.

The large concrete pavilion has been secured so that the celebration and barbecue will take place rain or shine.

TRIAL OF CALDWELL TO BE OPENED TODAY

Ex-Banker Accused of Receiving Deposits After Insolvency.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 19.—(UP)—Trial of Rogers Caldwell, former financier, on charges of receiving deposits in an insolvent bank is scheduled for tomorrow in criminal court. The matter was slated for June 9, but at that time District Attorney General Richard M. Atkinson said he had been unable to obtain sufficient evidence to go to trial.

Atkinson complained that D. D. Robertson, state superintendent of banks, had failed to co-operate in gathering evidence; it is the bank superintendent's duty to provide the attorney-general with evidence in bank insolvency cases, Atkinson said. Judge Charles Gilbert told Atkinson that if he could not obtain the

Women Live Longer, U. S. Census Proves

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(UP)—Women live longer than men in the United States, the census bureau revealed today. Of the 3,964 persons 100 years or over recorded in the 1930 census, 1,465 were men and 2,499 women. Approximately the same ratio existed among persons between 90 and 100.

Only 94,022 persons out of the nation's population of 122,775,046 either did not know how old they were or refused to tell the census taker, the report showed.

The declining birth rate was also graphically disclosed, only 9.3 per cent of the population being under 5 years of age, compared with 10.9 per cent in 1920. Actually there were 128,840 fewer youngsters under 5 years in the country in 1930 than 10 years before.

evidence, then he could recommend dismissal of the cases, two in number. The judge then postponed the matter until tomorrow.

Atkinson declined to say tonight if he had obtained the proof. Caldwell is charged with receiving two state deposits in the now defunct Bank of Tennessee, a subsidiary of his investment banking house, Caldwell & Company. The two enterprises failed in 1930.

ROOSEVELT, COUNSEL STUDY WALKER CASE

Course of Action of Executive May Be Known by End of Week.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 19.—(UP)—A testing of the "analysis" Samuel Seabury made of the Mayor Walker testimony was begun tonight by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and his special counsel of two on the case.

From tonight's meeting of the three men—the democratic governor and the attorneys, John E. Mack and Martin Conboy—was expected to evolve a decision on Mr. Roosevelt's part as to his next step, if any. Seabury's charges against New York city's chief executive.

A possibility existed that Mr. Roosevelt would reveal his decision before the end of this week.

One part of the work has been to convince the tax-paying officials that the city's financial condition is not as bad as it appears. Another has been to compel the tax dodger and tax evader to bear his share of the burden. Finally, the association is working for a reduction of the city's debt.

The common knowledge that real estate has diminished greatly in sales value provided the opening wedge, and the city board of education made flat reductions. The total cut in real estate valuation amounts to $41,730,251. This reduction alone will save the taxpayers $1,200,000.

The reduced valuations compelled the levying bodies of the government, strictly limited in what they may assess, to trim severely. The people of Omaha regretted it, but school teachers were compelled to accept a 10 per cent reduction in pay.

School teachers' committees and experts co-operated in the savings, and pointed out ways of reducing staffs and salaried overheads.

Further, due to a policy of accumulating cash, the school district no longer must pay heavily in interest on borrowed funds to pay current expenses. It is practically on a cash basis.

The city and county were saddled with heavy bond issues, and with provisions for the issuance of limited amounts of bonds without popular vote. By charter change vote of the people is now necessary for any large bond issue. Further, it is

SCORES ARE INJURED

BERLIN, June 19.—(UP)—Extremists of the right and left skirmished in various parts of Germany over the week-end and scores were injured. Communists systematically provoked national socialist followers of Adolf Hitler, fascist leader, at Elberfeld. Sixteen persons, including two policemen, were taken to hospitals after the melee.

At Cologne clubs burned from the Brown House, Nazi headquarters, greeted police attempting to disperse a forbidden demonstration of Nazi storm-troopers and members of the steel-helmet organization. Police arrested many. Several were hurt.

Omaha Group Lifts Burden From Oppressed Taxpayers

OMAHA, Neb., June 19.—After months of concentrated, unswerving endeavor, the Omaha Taxpayers' Association has won tangible victory in its fight against the cost of government. Its first triumph is the reduction of the assessed value of all real estate in the county, a reduction ranging from 12 to 17 per cent, according to districts, and averaging better than 15 per cent.

The victory is the result of constant work with public officials, aided by newspaper publicity and support, and a careful analysis of tax figures and governmental costs that leaves local officials with little to say.

The tax reduction program is being carried on along several allied lines, all tending toward the goal of reduced costs of local government.

One part of the work has been to convince the tax-paying officials that the city's financial condition is not as bad as it appears. Another has been to compel the tax dodger and tax evader to bear his share of the burden. Finally, the association is working for a reduction of the city's debt.

COMMUNISTS OUTLINE CAMPAIGN PLATFORM

7-Hour Day and Exemption of 'Poor Farmers' From Taxes Advocated.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 19.—(UP)—The communist party of the state of New York today made public its campaign platform with the mild suggestion that the public "may find it a refreshing contrast to vote-shopping compromises adopted by the old-time parties."

The communists' preamble, dire in its forebodings and graphic in its description of the suffering of the masses, makes a direct appeal to war veterans, negroes, farmers, and unskilled workers, and asks for "a huge vote to show Hoover, the bosses and bankers that we are united."

It promises: "Unemployment insurance to the full amount of their wages" for all workers, industrial or farmer, through funds to be raised by heavy taxation on incomes above $5,000, special levies on capital above $100,000, reduction in salaries of all officials getting more than $2,500 a year, and the turning over of all army, naval and war appropriations into unemployment and social insurance funds.

In addition, the communists want: State building of workers' homes, no eviction for unemployed, free food, shoes, clothing, milk and school supplies for all children of unemployed.

Full payment of veterans' bonus. Immediate payment in full of all deposits in failed banks, by the state. The 7-hour day, with no overtime.

Exception of "poor farmers" from all taxes. Full social, economic and political rights for negroes. Abolition of all vagrancy laws. Right of soldiers and sailors to elect their own officers. SCHEMLING IS 6-5 EN ROUTE TO BEAT SHARKEY

ON BOARD EASTERN AIR TRANSPORT CONDOR, EN ROUTE TO SHARKEY-SCHEMLING FIGHT IN NEW YORK, June 19.—It was a bit cloudy at Candler field but the radio reports said it would be all right. And so, at 8:15 this morning, the big 18-passenger Condor got up and away.

It almost immediately became apparent that here was Stone Mountain and we hardly seemed to have had time to get up. Perhaps it washed into town during the rainstorm Sunday night. I hope it didn't stop on anyone's toes.

Going on up. Lots of dumb, vagrant clouds floating about. Nice and fleecy to look at but not so nice inside. There we went through one, wrapped up for a moment like a hot dog in a big white bun.

Archibald Roosevelt is aboard. The Roosevelts have always been grand people. They have all had convictions and were not afraid to speak them and fight for them. One wonders what old Teddy would have thought of planes. "Bully," probably.

There are eight of us, all made comfortable. Miss Beulah Unruh, the hostess, sees to that. She wears a blue dress and jacket, a smart blue hat, tan stockings and shoes. It is the uniform for all hostesses on the line. But it doesn't look like a uniform.

Miss Unruh seems to anticipate the wants of passengers. She supplies magazines, soft drinks, cigarettes. She is pretty but efficient, a rare combination.

We must be about a mile up. The roads look like flat, narrow strips of yellow and white tooth paste that some giant has squeezed out in a fantastic pattern running here and there, intersecting and then streaking out alone.

The altitude is 2,500 feet and our speed is just a mere 125 miles per hour. Try that one your Model T sometime.

Well, of all things. There's one lonesome house fly. How did he ever get in here? One Atlanta fly going to New York. Hope it isn't a girl fly with all the temptations of the big city.

The ride is smooth. Not a bit of trouble to balance the portable on the knees and peck away at it. The hostess just came around with hot coffee and buttered bread. She peers out the window and points out the Savannah river. I thought it was a babbling brook. It's muddy and there's some backwater. Well, that means Greenville, S. C., soon.

"IT" WOULD LEAVE HOME. The hostess discovered my fly and came out with a fly swatter. These planes have all the comforts of home. There, she got him. Well, he or she would leave home.

Here comes Greenville. One hundred and forty-eight miles in an hour and five minutes. Ho, hum. Giddap, there, old hoss. The hostess works hard. The world do move. Twenty years ago mothers worried if daughter had to take a street car ride down to work. And now one of the feminine jobs is flying.

Into Greenville and out. A perfect landing and take-off. And then 23 miles to Spartanburg in 14 minutes and in and out.

The pilot, J. S. Charles, picks up his radio and talks to the field in Atlanta. They study weather reports supplied for miles ahead. They've got this flying business down pat, as the boys say.

All the world, too much cotton, seems to be cotton fields. No wonder there's too much cotton. There are too many fields. Pilot Charles and Co-Pilot D. G. Hendricks, both great fellows, call me to the pilot's cabin. They point out the board with its myriad dials. There is the magnetic compass. There is the Sperry horizon, which shows exactly what position the ship is in. Those, and many others, add them.

And then a great kick. They let me slip on the ear phones and listen as pilots talk to stations and the stations reply. Flying along more than a half mile up, sitting by roaring propellers, we talk and hear without trouble. Men in planes miles away talk with this one.

"Richmond, O. K. Going into Richmond." And then Baltimore, New York and others are heard.

It's a little world hung up here in a blue sky with drifting clouds. Men sit and read or doze in their seats.

The hostess points out to the passengers King's Mountain, where John Sevier's Tennesseans and North Carolinians used their long hunting rifles to turn back the red-coated British.

OLD GHOSTS PONDER. One wonders if any of the old ghosts hang about the place now and what they must think as this great plane goes roaring over where they fought.

Far over to the left are the Blue Ridge mountains. To the right is a great layer of clouds, flat-bottomed and looking rumpled, looking like a vast vista of biscuits sitting on some tremendous shelf ready for the oven.

Charlotte and the faultless precision these expert pilots possess. Two hundred and thirty-eight miles from Atlanta and it seems as if we should be no farther out than Windsor, if that far.

Near Greensboro we encounter a veritable sea of clouds, big, nice fluffy ones. We fly just above them and at times even with them. Clouds look so different up close. They float along as if on a pancake on the bottom side. And for one of the rare sights of beauty that one can see in the sky. At 4,000 feet we are recommended heavily.

Now we are over them as far ahead as we can see and far out to each side are nothing but rolling miles of clouds. They look like so many majestic cotton-white mountains. Through them we get occasional glimpses of the green earth with now and then the yellow ribbon of a river showing through. We are up 4,000 feet. One feels almost close to the great mystery of flying here above the earth, which is veiled by marching miles of clouds, tumbling away for 100 miles in an awe-inspiring vista of white.

Dropping down through the clouds the pilot landed at Greensboro for lunch. While we ate the clouds lowered a bit. When we took off for Richmond, 178 miles away, we climbed for 10 minutes through solid walls of cloud so that we were encased in them completely. Rain started. And then the clouds began to appear, filled with light and gone. We were nearing the sun. At 4,000 feet we got it. The clouds were heavier and thicker. We were a lone ship on a trackless waste of clouds with no land visible anywhere. We were isolated, detached entirely from the world.

The radio was busy keeping in touch with each station. We chose the higher altitude to get better air currents.

The surprising thing to the now-and-then flyer is to find the same old blue sky up there after pushing up through clouds for 10 minutes.

POLAR EXPEDITIONS OUT. With a little imagination one can picture the apparently endless and solid fields of light beneath as the exotic lands of ice encountered by those flying over the north pole. And I can say right now that I will never go on a polar expedition. One can go below these clouds.

We went it blind for a whole hour, the pilot steering by the compass. And I don't care for a trans-Atlantic flight just yet although I believe this ship and crew could make it.

Out of the clouds now, from 4,000 feet down to 1,400. The valleys of Virginia are below us. The clouds scud by. A head-wind holds us back to a pace of 125 miles an hour.

A railroad train looks like the one Junior got for Christmas. Too fast. We can't hear you. Oh, my yes, this big ship has just been up to the smoking room. Oh, my yes, this big ship has just been up to the smoking room. Oh, my yes, this big ship has just been up to the smoking room.

And tell those jokes, the sort that used to be told in a Pullman smoker. And try this in your motor some week day end. We rolled into Richmond 500 miles from Atlanta just now. And we made it in 4 hours and 40 minutes. And that includes the stops. Thirty minutes in one of them.

We sailed right over the Potomac river. Yes, all was quiet along it. Rain clouds, though, have us down to a ceiling of 900 feet. We've been at that altitude for 200 miles. These E. A. T. pilots do a marvelous job. And take no risks at all.

Mount Vernon appears below. George Washington probably didn't keep the grass cut as well as it is now.

Out of Washington and now we sweep over the camp of the bonus army. From the air the rows of tents and crude shelters appear to be fairly alive with people. There must be several thousand still in the camp despite the fact their cause is lost.

At Baltimore there is more drifting fog. But the radio has solved it. There is a higher ceiling at Wilmington and so we go on. There is no talking of change. They know what they are doing. Nowhere is such care taken.

Miss Unruh serves hot tea and cakes as we roar on at 120 miles per hour. She has been flying for a year and a half. Practically every day finds her on a plane. Her presence and her calm assurance comfort the more timid passengers. A hostess is one of the most valuable bits of work done by the air lines to promote air travel.

AND THERE'S PHILLY. The Delaware bay. That means Camden, the Philadelphia airport, is near. Sea-going vessels move up the bay to Philly, the home of the A's.

The weather is better but still cloudy. Because the pilots know which is ahead they can go on with perfect safety.

And so, on past more and more populated territory. Hey, that must be Princeton University, and so it is. There's the stadium where Fritz Crisler will try to win some games next fall.

And then the sun peeps through for a moment. He's still up there. And here's Newark and the last field. A bus to New York and then to meet Joe Jacobs and Max Schmeling and see if they have changed their minds about knocking out Jack Sharkey Tuesday night. A great trip, nine hours to New York, counting the time lost in stops. Great pilots and great maintenance.

LONDOS' TITLE IS UP TONIGHT AT BALL PARK

Champion Meets Rough and Rugged Dusek in Charity Match.

Jim Londos, world's champion wrestler, will defend his title in the second outdoor match of the year tonight at the baseball park with rough-and-rugged Ernie Dusek as his opponent.

Henry Weber, in putting on the match, persuaded the baseball team to play an afternoon game so that the park might be free for the wrestlers. The semi-winners will find Paul Harper, the Texas cowboy, in action against Frank Speer, the former Georgia Tech football star.

FIRST CLASS. Both matches are first-class ones and the appearance of the champion makes the card one of unusual interest. The fact that a part of the proceeds will go to the milk fund for the crippled children's home makes the match one of the most deserving in years.

Londos, who has not lost a fall since he won the title, will be the favorite to win from Dusek. Yet he is not underestimating the strength of his opponent. In a letter to Henry Weber, matchmaker, Londos said: "I know that when I do lose the title it will be at an unexpected time, some time when I have become careless and forgotten some young fellow just coming along with a lot of ambition. So I keep trying not to let up."

LOST FALL HERE. "I understand this Dusek won from Milo Steinborn there. And I recall once, just before I won the title, when Atlanta fans saw Steinborn pin me for a fall. I got careless and he got me with his bear hug."

"I am delighted to wrestle in the ball park, because I enjoyed it there last summer. And I am doubly glad the milk fund will benefit."

Londos is the man who, by his straight wrestling, brought the game out of the depression into which it had fallen and made it have its greatest period during the worst economic period.

FINE SEMI-WINDUP. The semi-winners match tonight will be one of interest to local fans. Harper has not appeared here in some time. Speer is a good attraction.

Tickets are on sale at Davidson-Paxton's at 15 cents. Ladies' tickets, 10 cents. Seats are 50 cents. They will remain there until 5 o'clock. At that time they will be transferred to the ball park. Ladies will be admitted to $1.50 seats.

There are 8,000 seats there and all of them are good ones, because of the location of the ring at home plate and the electric lights focused on the ring. Officials of the Masonic Club, sponsoring the milk fund, ask all interested to attend the match.

CRACKERS LOSE TO CHICKS, 8-3

Blethen and Casey Pitch for Atlanta; Back Home Today.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 19.—While Clarence Griffin, the diminutive left-hander of the leading Chicks was holding the Crackers in tow, his mates paved the way for a victory off Climax Blethen and eventually took today's game, 8-3. It was the ninth straight victory for little Griffin and his 13th of the season. He allowed 10 hits and was wobbling near the end of the journey when the Crackers secured their three runs and six of their hits in the last three innings.

The Chicks bunched two hits with two errors for a pair of scores in the first inning. They bunched four hits including a triple by Hutcherson with two for four more scores in the fifth. Hugh Casey, young right-hander, started the sixth for the Crackers and the Chicks scored two in the seventh without his aid. Casey gave three bases on balls in the inning and forced in a runner on a balk.

After holding the Crackers hitless in the first, fifth and sixth, the Chicks bunched two hits and wrapped two in the seventh and forced in a score in the eighth and ninth. The ten hits off Griffin were all singles.

Atlanta Returns For Week's Stand.

The Atlanta Crackers return home today for a solid week's stand. They will play Memphis in the series opening at 3 p. m. today. Red Barron plans to start Johnny Carrithers, his promising young southpaw, against the Chicks.

There will be a night game tomorrow night and another day game Wednesday to allow Memphis to catch a train. On Thursday night the Crackers and Birmingham Barons play a night game. The Barons are here Thursday and Friday, and Knoxville pinks a single game here on Saturday. Room is considering starting Saturday games at 3 p. m. henceforth as well.

MEMPHIS LEADS SOUTHERN WEEK

Chicks Win Six of Seven Games to Recapture Top.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 19.—(AP)—Five of the eight Southern association teams last week averaged .500 or better in their games.

Memphis jumped back into the lead by winning six of its seven games for a percentage of .857, while Chattanooga ranked second with four victories out of seven games for an average of .571.

Third place honors were shared by Atlanta, Birmingham and Nashville, the Crackers winning half of their eight games and the other two clubs taking half of six each.

GET 72 HITS. The Chicks hit the leadership stride by amassing 41 runs, 72 hits and four home runs. Opponents were allowed 30 runs. Eight errors were made.

The Lookouts brought in 36 runs but allowed opponents only three less. They also got 64 hits and tied the Chicks in home runs and errors.

In the three-way third place tie, both Birmingham and Nashville, playing for a fall, got one less and the Crackers managed to bring in only 30 in eight games.

Birmingham was the most effective in preventing opponents from scoring, allowing 40 runs while Nashville gave 47 and Atlanta 46.

The Volunteers were heavy on the bat, however. They set the week's record for hits and home runs with 85 of the first and 10 of the latter. The Barons hit six circuit clouts for second honors and added 67 hits to their season's total.

THIRTY-ONE RUNS. The Travelers got 31 runs themselves but allowed opponents three more. Sixty-four hits and a home run were credited to them, along with 11 errors.

Knoxville lost five out of eight games and New Orleans five out of seven. The Smokies brought in 44 runs and held opponents to 38 and ranked next to Nashville in the hit column with 81. The Pelicans got 38 hits and scored 38 runs.

NEW ORLEANS. 3 8 38 38 2 375

By Max Schmeling, Heavyweight Champion of the World.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 19.—(AP)—Just one more, and I'll be on the eve of what I expect to be the greatest fight I ever waged, a real battle upon which more depends than any fight I ever had.

For the first time in my life I felt a slight dread that something might happen—a butt, a rope burn, a twist of the ankle, a strain of the back or shoulder—any one of a thousand little things loomed up with a bigness that I never before assumed because the fight is so near.

But now the training is over I feel better.

Those about me are beginning to feel the strain. Max Machon is too solicitous. He is a calm, experienced fellow, this Machon, and I know he feels toward me like a brother. Jacobs bites nervously on his cigar, but all the while he tells everyone that I am bound to win.

He tells me, too, and I know he believes it, but he is jealous of every detail. He jumps quickly to intercept any talker, and he seems bent on keeping me from the slightest outside communication. The personnel of the camp are on edge, and there is an air of tension. They regard me with the eyes of those who are watching me carefully, yet fearful that I might catch them in the act of watching.

They interpose themselves between me and some unseen threat—that's the way it appears to me. Yet there is no threat. The thing they want to guard me against is an accident, no matter how slight. A little cold, a scratch, any one of a thousand trivial things that would have caused no comment, that would have been passed off indifferently a week or two ago, now take on importance.

STEEL'S SELF. I have steeled myself to ignore this, but it is so apparent. Yet I cannot say anything nor do anything about it. And I do not feel that I want to. They are taking this last workout, my final sparring, too seriously. You'd actually think it was the big fight in one of many workouts.

There is no nervousness on my part. I hold up my hand and gaze at it steadily. It doesn't move. Of course, I am holding it still just to see if there is any sign of nerves. There isn't. I haven't experienced any of the nervousness that the sport writers have written about other champions. I do not expect to experience any. I find myself wondering how Sharkey is taking it. Does he relieve his tension with talk?

What about me? Do I really hope he is in the finest condition? Do I really want him to be at his very best?

Winder Doubtful Of Split Season

Ray Winder, business manager of the Little Rock baseball team, stated before leaving Atlanta Saturday night that he did not believe the Southern league season will be split this year and that Memphis, Chattanooga and possibly Birmingham are the only teams that have a chance of winning the championship.

"The time to declare a split season is during the winter and after the schedule gets far along it is next to impossible to get the leading clubs to agree to it," Winder declared. He stated that he would vote for the split with the teams so far along if it came to an issue, but doubted if it would get that far.

Fort Oglethorpe Beats McPherson

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 19.—Fort Oglethorpe opened its home polo season here today by spotting Fort McPherson two goals and handing the Atlanta team a 2-0 defeat.

Led by Colonel Johnston and Captain Herren, the sixth cavalry won the first of a series of two games before 1,500 fans. Second game is slated here next Sunday.

Carleton Limits Giants to Two Hits as Cards Win, 7 to 0

JIM BOTTOMLEY HITS 2 HOMERS AND A SINGLE

Jimmy Foxx Clouts His 26th Home Run as A's Split.

NEW YORK, June 19. (UP)—The 1932 Cardinals, shattered considerably by frequent reverses on their first eastern swing, scored today when Tex Carleton, Texas league recruit, shut out the New York Giants with two hits, 7 to 0.

It marked the first major league victory for Carleton, the hurler upon whom Gabby Street depended to take the place of Burleigh Grimes, spitballer now with Chicago.

Carleton's brilliant pitching wasn't the only bright spot in the St. Louis victory. "Sunny" Jim Bottomley, whose hitting this season has been a spot of light, hit his eighth home run of the season, a double, which accounted for four runs, with Mancuso's homer responsible for the other three.

The victory enabled St. Louis to lead into a virtual deadlock with the Giants and Brooklyn for fourth place in the National League standing.

Brooklyn lost an opportunity to climb in the race by dropping a 2-1 decision to Pittsburgh. The Pirates, shut out for seven innings, came to life in the eighth and scored two runs on hits by Evers and Davis.

In the other National League game, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Boston Braves, 5 to 0, behind the five-inning performance of St. Johnson. Home runs by Evers and Grimes accounted for the attack against Ben Cantwell and Fred Frankhouse.

Cleveland replaced Washington in third place in the American League when the Indians took two games from the Boston Red Sox, 9 to 3 and 8 to 5, while Washington lost to Detroit, 8 to 5.

Even a new manager could not stop the Red Sox out of their slump, and their new pilot, Marj McManus, who lost their 45th and 46th games in 57 starts, John "Shamus" Collins, who resigned today as manager, watched the game from the stands.

In the first game the Indians got hits off Weiland, Lisenbee and Michaels, while Connolly, on the Cleveland mound, yielded 15. In the night game Kline and Durham were clouted 14 hits by the Indians, while Connolly yielded 12 to Boston.

Brown in his own right, clouted a home run by blasting out a home run with two runners on bases.

Detroit made it three out of four on Washington in the eighth inning, while the Tigers won the game, 4 to 1, while Wyatt and Burke and Evers yielded eight to Washington.

Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Browns divided a doubleheader. The Browns took the opener, 2 to 1, in 10 innings, and the Athletics won the nightcap, 6 to 3.

Jimmy Foxx hit his twenty-sixth home run of the season in the third inning of the second game. The Browns turned a triple play in the tenth inning of the nightcap. Foxx and Evers were the winners in the nightcap, 6 to 3.

Supporting Mrs. Moody in the American bid for women's honors will be Helen Jacobs, Sarah Palfrey, Mrs. Lea Harper and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke.

Mrs. Moody's chief rival, on the records, will be Mme. Rene Mathieu, of France, who lost in straight sets to the Californian in the final of the French championships recently.

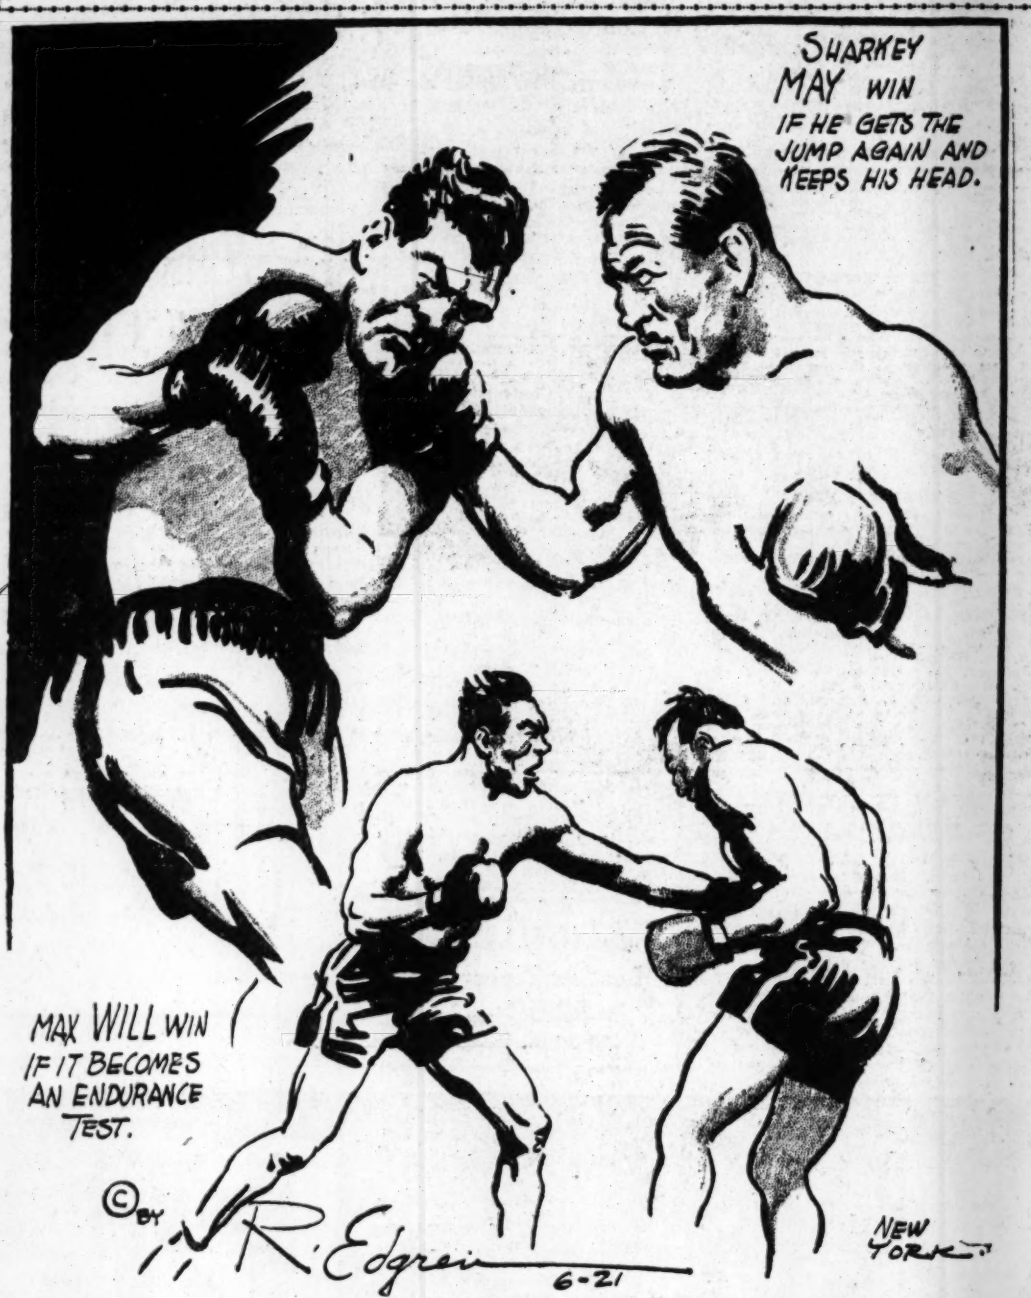

American hopes in men's singles rest chiefly on the lanky figure of Ellsworth Vines but there is more than a little question as to whether the American champion yet has been able to acclimatize himself to the grass courts of Wimbledon.

He was beaten by Harry Hopman in the Queen's Club tournament last week but may find himself in time to make a creditable showing in the big championships.

Sidney Z. Wood, who won the crown last year by default from Frank Shields, will defend his title and Shields again will be a contender along with Wilmer Allison, Gregory Mangin and John Van Ryn. Shields, Allison and Van Ryn, however, will be handicapped by lack of practice, as they were to arrive in England just in time to play in the first round.

Allison and Van Ryn look like the class of the men's doubles field, provided they can quickly fall into form and Vines and Mrs. Moody, Allison and Miss Jacobs, and Mangin and Miss Palfrey all strong combinations in mixed doubles.

U.S. NET STARS FACE BATTLES

WIMBLEDON, England, June 19. (AP)—The greatest of international tennis tournaments, the British championships, opens at Wimbledon tomorrow with the United States conceding one title in advance and given at least a fighting chance for the other four.

There seems to be none to dispute the title claim of Mrs. Helen Vines Moody in women's singles but Europe is prepared to put up a real battle for the men's singles and doubles.

ROOS FAVORS 40-CENT SEATS IN BLEACHERS

Cracker Business Manager Leaves for Meeting on Sports Tax.

By Jimmy Jones.

On the eve of his departure to represent the Atlanta baseball club at the Southern league meeting in Memphis today, F. H. (Chick) Roos, business manager of the Atlanta baseball club, disclosed the plan of meeting the new 10 per cent sports tax that he will present to the other directors.

Roos stated that he had put in a resolution reducing bleacher admissions to 40 cents, which would make them free of tax and that two other directors favored this plan.

There are three proposals that will be made for bleacher seats, he stated. They are:

Forty cents admission, no tax, total 40 cents.

Forty-five cents, tax 5 cents, total 50 cents.

Fifty cents, plus tax 5 cents, total 55 cents.

These plans are all subject to league discussion and league vote. Since the law reads that a tax of 10 per cent and the fraction thereof be added to the 40-cent grandstand admission, making a total of eight cents to be levied, three proposals have been made along this line.

For the grandstand, Roos favors an admission charge of 72 cents, which means that the ball club would absorb three and the patrons five of the additional eight cents. If his plan cutting bleacher admissions to 40 cents should be adopted, the fan would be forced to pay only five cents extra, although that and on the grandstand.

The new change in the admission prices, whatever may be adopted, goes into effect Tuesday night's game.

TO MEET TAX

The three proposals for meeting the grandstand tax are:

Admission, 72 cents, absorb 3 cents, pass 5 cents to patron; total 80 cents.

Admission, 68 cents, absorb 7 cents, total 75 cents.

Admission, 75 cents, passing 8 cents, total 83 cents.

While there was no direct word of it, Roos said that the question of splitting the Southern league season into two halves, with the first half ending Martin's final "O. K." of the dead ball.

The so-called rabbit ball has already made its departure from Ponce de Leon park and Cracker pitchers have been throwing the new Carr ball with the elevated seams for several days.

The old Lehigh ball supply was used up early in the week. Ruben May, guard and Andy Messenger both pitched the "dead" ball in turning in victories over Little Rock.

THE PORTLIGHT

By Krawlow Rice

The Sharkey Mystery.

Jack Sharkey has come to another crossroad. It will be his last stand where the trail splits up. After tomorrow night he will either be pacing the championship path or he will be headed for oblivion. As Sharkey himself put the matter a day or two ago, "by Tuesday night I will either be a champion or a bum."

Tomorrow's meeting for the heavyweight title will be largely a clash between mind and matter, primal antagonists. The mental side has nothing to do with intellectual accomplishments. The simple facts are these:

1. Sharkey is physically equipped to win. He is bigger than Schmeling—his faster than Schmeling—he is a better two-fisted puncher—he is a better boxer—he is far more experienced—he is in fine physical shape.

2. Sharkey is far from being any dumbbell. He is game enough. But as Don Marquis once said, "mind is superior to matter—when there's nothing the matter."

Max Schmeling's dominance on the mental side amounts to this: a combination of determination and concentration, rolled together, which makes him a very difficult man to beat. This is what it means to possess "Physical." It all gets down to the combination that Schmeling carries—which is the white gauze bandages around his head and neck, and the important factors in competitive sport.

In Comparison.

While Sharkey has most of the physical advantages, including superior boxing skill, it must also be remembered that the German champion is a young, strong, tireless athlete who can take it and keep going. He also has his physical side. In fact, he may have more durability than Sharkey can show beyond the tenth round.

But it is that set concentration on the main job—that thoroughly drilled Teutonic mind—which makes Schmeling stand out above any shortcomings in the way of skill.

What about Sharkey's new mental state? There isn't any doubt that Sharkey believes he has at least a fair chance of winning the job and fight his fight. He has shown a big change in his training camp over other years.

But who can foretell what will happen when the two meet before a big crowd—when the battle starts and Jack happens to catch on the chin or along the ribs?

There are not many who have any great control over the subconscious mind in a crisis. That is why there are so few champions.

GOB CONFIDENT AS FIGHT NEARS; HE WEIGHS 200

Finishes Hard Work Without Scratch and Leaves for Scene.

ORANBERG, N. Y., June 19. (UP)—Jack Sharkey concluded training today for his title bout with Max Schmeling, and left by automobile for New York tonight.

"Gee, I'm glad that's over," said Sharkey, as Trainer Al Lacey released Jack's perspiring hands from a pair of 12-ounce gloves at the end of his four-round workout before a large crowd.

Sharkey expressed the sentiments of every member of his training regime, because the workout ended a tedious training campaign of six full weeks.

During that time, Jack boxed a total of 126 rounds and finished up without a scratch. He has no threatening cuts over his eyes and no hand injuries which bulky Johnny Buckley, his manager, might seize upon as alibis if he fails in his title quest.

"Take these things and save them as a souvenir," directed Sharkey as he yanked the white gauze bandages from his hands and tossed them to a friend nearby. "The next pair I give you will be from the new world's heavyweight champion."

Sharkey was bubbling over with confidence. He claims he is in the best condition of his career and that he will show the public why Schmeling dropped to the floor two years ago, "making faces." As his last official statement at the camp, Sharkey insisted he had not fouled Schmeling, but that the German had dropped to the floor because he knew he was whipped.

Sharkey boxed three fast rounds with Joe Sekyra, Dayton (Ohio) heavyweight, and one with Charley Anderson, Chicago colored heavyweight. Sharkey worked fast but displayed no savagery. He was under orders to take things easy and not chance a last-minute hand injury.

He weighed 200 pounds after his rub-down, the poundage which he expects to scale in the official weigh-in on Tuesday.

Sharkey undoubtedly knows his weakness in the foot. He ought to. It has cost him enough. For the first time he will admit it now without any alibi. He believes he has conquered it, and he will keep cool head throughout. If any one could prove this in advance, Sharkey would be the pick.

But old habits are hard to cure in times of stress and storm. It isn't hard to cure a fault. But when a fault becomes a habit you have a job on your hands.

BAINBRIDGE QUIET AFTER SHOOTING

Excitement Subsides
After Negro Killer Is Rushed to Safety.

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., June 19.—High feeling that existed here Saturday night when a negro known as Sam Hall shot and killed Dr. Roy Herron, 37, prominent veterinary surgeon, had ebbed Sunday. The crowds contented themselves with paying a last tribute to Dr. Herron before the body was sent to Starr, S. C., his birthplace.

Within 15 minutes after the shooting the slayer was escorted by Sheriff W. J. Catledge and Assistant Police Chief D. R. Barber to an unannounced destination, and a few minutes later cars were going out from Bainbridge in every direction in an effort to locate the jail to which he had been carried. Their efforts were thwarted by the quick work of the officers.

Dr. Herron was shot through the heart after the negro had cursed him and complained because the car of the doctor had narrowly missed hitting a negro's wagon, according to a young lady eye-witness who was riding with Herron. Patrolman R. H. Deunkwater and Fireman Dick Adams happened on the scene immediately and arrested the negro, who was standing over the body with two guns in his hands.

Herron is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Herron Sr.; three sisters, Mrs. W. P. Pettigrew, Misses Eva and Marion Herron, all of Seneca, S. C.; three brothers, Reese, Anderson, S. C.; Clyde, of Columbia, and James, of Starr. He attended Clemson and Auburn and came here after service in the American army during the World War.

STATE PLANS TO TEST
INCOME TAX PROTEST

Test cases to determine the legality of Tax Commissioner Paul Doyal's ruling that federal income taxes are not deductible from the state levy and to ascertain whether national bank stock dividends are subject to taxation will be filed this week by Attorney-General Lawrence S. Camp for the state revenue commission.

A bill against one stockholder of a national bank and against the National Biscuit Company in the federal deduction case will be issued, W. B. Mann, director of the income tax division, has advised attorneys representing individuals and concerns protesting the Doyal ruling.

Under Former Tax Commissioner R. C. Norman the state exempted from its income levy the amount of income taxes paid to the United States, just as the federal government exempts from taxation the amount paid to the state. Commissioner Doyal reversed this ruling and informed protesting taxpayers who asked for a hearing that the commission had adopted a policy of not holding hearings.

The decision to make one test case in the income tax dispute and one in that involving bank stock dividends, instead of issuing wholesale bills, as originally contemplated, was reached when Representative J. H. Boykin, of Lincoln, author of the tax law, wrote the commission that the legislature never intended to prevent the deduction of federal taxes from state returns.

DRYS ARE 'THINKING',
DR. POLING DECLARES

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—The dries of the country, said Dr. Daniel A. Poling today, "are doing their own thinking."

Thus the chairman of the allied forces for prohibition disposed for the present of the prohibition plank adopted by the republican convention, promising a "complete statement of policy and program following the democratic national convention and the meeting of the united dry organizations."

"The dries," he said, speaking of the republican plank, "united in a fight for clear-cut platform declarations in favor of law enforcement."

"They united in opposition to making prohibition the partisan issue of political parties. They united against committing senators and representatives to any program of repeal or re-submissions contrary to personal conviction or the dry sentiment of particular states and districts."

"They opposed repeal and resubmission. The republican plank should have more than a casual reading. Adverse comment already made upon it by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Senator Bingham, who led the opposition is significant."

"Certainly our wet friends, on the basis of their findings, suffered defeat."

"The dry organizations will go into executive session immediately following the democratic convention. After this session they will issue a general statement."

"In the meantime the dries throughout the country are doing their own thinking."

The allied forces, he said, will unite with other temperance groups at the democratic convention just as they did at the republican. Until then, he added, organizational activities are being pushed, positions consolidated, reserve funds augmented, and "particular attention is being devoted to the survey of congressional districts and senatorial contests."

REINSTATEMENTS, CALL
END CHURCH DISPUTE

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 19.—(AP)—Reinstate members and resignations climaxed a factional controversy in the First Christian church here today as the congregation voted to call the Rev. Roy Rutherford, Little Rock, to the pulpit July 1.

The congregation also voted to reinstate six elders whose resignations were asked last Sunday. However, it was reported that one faction did not vote on the reinstatement. At the same time James L. Phelps, general board chairman, and three deacons resigned, giving no reason for the action.

The Rev. E. C. Mobley, pastor, is expected to be called to the Little Rock church at a meeting tomorrow night, the Rev. Mr. Rutherford said over the telephone.

J. S. Ross, who submitted the resolution to reinstate the elders, characterized the years-long controversy as a "mere difference of opinion among friends," and Vice Chairman D. Replie, of the general board, declared "the war is over."

Solons To Visit 2 Cities in Study Of U. S. Competition in Business

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(AP)—The house committee that is trying to find out how much business the government takes away from individuals will visit at least two cities in its search for facts—New York and Kansas City.

Chairman Shannon today told newspapermen the New York hearings on competition with private business will begin just after congress adjourns and last three or four days.

Those in Kansas City, expected to last longer, will begin the middle of July. Then, in September, the committee will return to Washington to resume hearings which will be recessed this week.

Representative Bacon, republican, New York, arranged the New York city hearings, which Shannon probably will not attend because of the democratic national convention. They will go into the question of competition with private enterprise. Shannon said, "The competition spreads to all fields."

"One of the worst features of the situation is that the money of the taxpayers is used to pay the overhead expenses of these government institutions which provide the competition. The more the government goes into the field, the more business is taken away from private enterprise and the less taxes private industry can pay."

Shannon said the committee had decided not to go to the Pacific coast or to New Orleans in answer to requests "because nobody is junketing, and we can get enough information in the hearings we have planned."

TARZAN THE UNTAMED No. 1

Copyright, 1932, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc.

Lord Greystoke, Tarzan of the Apes, returning to the estate, received news, at Nairobi, of the invasion of British East Africa by a army of Red. He hurried to fetch his wife to a place of greater security as...

Olga Borech, Red spy, reported at East African Headquarters of the invading army and won the admiration of the staff for her clever work and great beauty. In the meantime...

Ivan Karzenoff, officer in the invading army, sweated and swore as he trudged wearily with his raiding party through the gloomy African forest. They were lost in the jungle.

Lady Greystoke, with Tarzan still miles away, helplessly listened to the sounds of a frightful battle in the living room. Then the door of her bedroom was forced open and she screamed with horror.

The Real Estate Situation As Discussed by Those Who Know It

from A to Z

B. M. GRANT, Pres.

L. E. GRANT, Vice-Pres.

REAL ESTATE-RENTING

GRANT BLDG. 600 N. W. COR. 10th & Walnut

Atlanta, Georgia

June 16, 1932.

The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Gentlemen:

The Real Estate market today offers the public an opportunity to buy at the lowest prices in twelve years.

Many factors should be seriously considered before buying.

In the purchasing of property, one should consult a reliable broker for intelligent, courteous service.

Location and trend should be carefully considered when purchasing or owning Real Estate.

Another important factor is the correct time to buy. The wise person buys on a low market and sells on a high one.

Economic conditions have forced some properties down to the point where they are attractive to the cautious buyer.

The public is becoming Real Estate conscious and realizes more fully the basic safety and sole control of property.

Present conditions are also favorable to owners in exchanging their present holdings for better located properties.

The soundness of Real Estate has been proven in the past few years, by taking less depreciation than stocks and commodities.

We believe that the people of Atlanta are beginning to appreciate the advisability of buying now.

You are to be commended in your efforts to inform the public of today's opportunities in Real Estate.

Wishing you continued success in your service to the community, we are,

Yours very truly,

B. M. GRANT COMPANY,

By, B. M. Grant, President

No. 9 of a series of letters by leading Atlanta business men—to be published daily in The Atlanta Constitution in the interest of real estate investments.

Arthur Lake, screen actor, proves to be just another master of ceremony, whose juvenile gyrations, amiable personality and musical skills with the orchestra are no better and no worse than those of most of the other comedians. Various vaudeville acts, with him includes a fine dog act. He confess that all dog acts are fine for the reason that they are the only act on the phone and some other odds and ends we are unable to recall.

Some scenes are so good they are afforded by the tunes offered.
